This refers to the amount of capital that is available to place trades on a specific day. Your Day Trading Buying Power is equal to the excess maintenance margin that is available in your account multiplied by four. For example, if you have $25,000 of capital in your account, your Day Trading Buying Power is equal to $100,000. While this is the industry standard some brokers will reduce the day trading leverage that is available based their risk tolerance.
